Life & Experience

Capt. Madden

I was tone distance from hories, and on returning in the availage agreet storm arises, and all at once it became accedingly dark. The lightning flashed and the blunder folled, while the wind in its terrillo force seemed to be oversping all before it. At first I was filled with serror, then I, thought of fold who was sale, is deliver see, and I prayed with all before it. At first I was filled with serror, then I, thought of fold who was sale, is deliver see, and I prayed with all before it. At first I was filled with a serror, then I, thought of fold who was sale, it is done then appeared a green, light, life the sun, just before me, and with it at once there appeared a green, light, life the sun, just before me, and with it at once there appeared a green, light, life the sun, just before me, and with it all the other was skill regime around, on reaching my home the light disappeared, and I was sale. As I entered the house I found my mother worging, while others were out tooking for me has alseed me how I got home, and as I took line the climped free in her arms, thanking God for The state of the s

these things will I give thee if the wilt Farewell of Major bow down and worship me," but by God's help I was able to say Smith for America.

Friday night, October 24th, was a time which will be long remembered in the minds of the Soldiers of the London Corps. The announcement that the London Major had marching orders for America brought together a number of Soldiers from the Ocrps included in the London Division.

What a splendid testimony to the affection and esteem of the Londou troops for their Major was that grand Hail full of people after an announcement of only four day—and on a Friday night too!

Friday night too!

It was only on Monday that Major Smith's appointment to America was definitely made known to him. and on the same day he amounced it at an efficient moeting being held at Hampstond. We understand that nearly every Officer of the Divinion.
